

About NDRC

NDRC is an Ireland-based investor in collaborative digital innovations based on research. NDRC's investment programmes are tailored to enable innovators, entrepreneurs, researchers and companies to translate great ideas into income generating products and high growth businesses.

With an investment fund, a neutral space for teams to work alongside other digital innovation projects, and a dedicated commercialisation team, NDRC has been working for the past four years to accelerate the rate of innovation, with a strong focus on creating market capital.

The NDRC team covers the range of skills required to accelerate strong ideas to income, spanning start-ups, multinational companies, venture investment and research.

NDRC's Toolkit:-

- NDRC's Inventorium toolkit provides methods and processes for building collaborations; generating ideas; and turning those ideas into business propositions.
- Through its Catalyser collaborative innovation programme, NDRC builds joint ventures with companies and research partners to provide expertise and investment into research-led or research-informed digital ventures.
- NDRC LaunchPad Accelerator is an investment programme that supports the next generation of digital entrepreneurs to accelerate good ideas to sound start-ups. Through investment and a tailored 12 week programme, small teams focus on increasing their revenue and investment potential.
